Neutral Estimates Higher

Foreign military observers, however, estimated the effective combat strength of the Suchow garrison at 110,000 men — in the 63rd, second and 13th armies. The forward elements were engulfed by Red columns 25 miles south of Suchow. The 13th army group was holding rear guard positions.

Military sources reported the Communists entered Suchow only to find huge supply depots destroyed. Ammunition and gasoline dumps were blown up. Air observers said smoke pillars reached 8,000 feet above Suchow.

Those sources said the Suchow army groups would have to fight through a 30-mile belt to make contact with the troops trapped at Suhsien about 60 miles to reach the Sixth and Eighth Nationalist Army groups which have formed a defense line on the Hwai river, 100 miles northwest of Nanking.

Reds Ease Assault

Meanwhile, seven Red columns totalling about 100,000 men eased their assault on the Hwai river line. They were reported to have moved north (evidently to help stop the Suchow garrison and to left only a small holding force opposite the Hwai river armies.

Government quarters reported that the 20th Army of about 35,000 men had been ordered from the Paichungshi central China command to bolster the Nanking garrison, except for the forces in the Suchow-Hwai river area, the government had only 40,000 troops to defend Nanking and Shanghai.

Earlier today, the government indicated it would make a fighting retreat to mountainous south China if the Reds overrun this area.

PLAY LEAD ROLES IN YOUTH CONFERENCE

REV. DENNIS SAVAGE

DR. ROY BURKHART

MISS BETTY NICHOLS

MISS VIRGINIA HOWARD

FOUR PERSONS who are to play leading roles in the Ohio Christian Youth council three-day conference in Marion opening today are pictured above. They are Miss Virginia Howard of Marion, local chairman, Miss Betty Nichols of Westerville, conference chairman, Rev. Dennis Savage, director of the Christian Youth Conference of North America, and Dr. Roy Burkhart, Columbus pastor and state youth leader.

300 Coming To Marion For Three-Day Session Of Ohio Youth Council

Prominent personalities at the three-day Ohio Christian Youth council conference opening here today include state and national youth leaders, and those who are in charge of arrangements for the convention locally. Headquarters of the conference is Epworth Methodist church, where all sessions will be held.

From the staff of the United Christian Youth movement, administered by the International Council of Religious Education, comes Rev. Dennis Savage, director of the Christian Youth Conference of North America. His headquarters is Chicago, Ill.

Another principal speaker will be Dr. Roy Burkhart of Columbus, known nationally as a young peoples leader. He is pastor of First Community church of Columbus and is author of a number of books on youth counseling, consulted often by groups and individuals on young people's problems. He has appeared in Marion on several previous occasions as a speaker.

Conference Chairman

Miss Betty Nichols of Westerville is conference chairman, and Miss Virginia Howard of Marion is local chairman. Miss Howard is a past president of the Marion Christian Youth movement which is the host group. Miss Margaret Huffman, director of religious education of Epworth church, is adult advisor.

The United Christian Youth movement of which the Marion Christian Youth movement is a part is an interdenominational organization of young people functioning on a nationwide basis in Ohio it is the Ohio Christian Youth council, young peoples division of the Ohio Council of Churches. The Marion Christian Youth movement is the youth department of the Marion County Council of Churches.

Registration of delegates was to begin late this afternoon. Delegations are arriving from university and college campuses and from communities throughout the state. A special drive has been made to attract students in schools here from foreign lands "for the part they can play in forming an effective program of peace, international brotherhood and relief," it was stated.

"Members of the OCYC are gathering at Marion to decide the best to do their part in making the church a place where youth will gather and remain. It is a known fact that Sunday schools over the land are prospering, but what of the church?" Some pastors are bold to say that young people are their biggest problem for it is on the young that the years ahead must build, officials of the organization declared.

College Group In Play

The program will include besides discussion groups presentation of a drama by the Westerville Players at Otterbein university at Athens, and a closing service Sunday afternoon. Meals will include luncheon Saturday noon at First Evangelical and Reformed church, banquet Saturday night at the Masonic temple and Sunday noon luncheon at Trinity Baptist church. Members of the various churches are providing lodging for the delegates.

Approximately 300 delegates are expected to attend. Registration of young people from out of town will begin at 5:30 tonight and continue until 8:30 when evening service will be held. Attn. Dr. Burkhart speaking. During the three hours when delegations are arriving, the various groups will be welcomed in a "refreshment room" which has been set up.

A service of worship tomorrow morning will be held at 9. Dr. Burkhart will speak at 9:45 and discussion groups will meet at 10:30. Lunch will be served at First Evangelical and Reformed church followed by discussion groups at 1:30. A free period until 6:30, time of the banquet at the Masonic temple will include a conducted tour to the Harding Home on East Center street for those wishing to.

READY TO BEGIN WORK TO CLEAR FALLEN BRIDGE

Semi-Temporary Span To Be Installed Over Creek at Cardington.

[illegible] Higley, [illegible] head of the state highway department's Delaware district 6 bridge branch said work would begin in progress "before the week is out" to remove the Cardington bridge over Whetstone creek which collapsed under a large truck early yesterday.

Construction of a new, steel semi-temporary type bridge to replace the one which failed will begin immediately, Mr. Higley said. The temporary span will be completed in four to six weeks, he added.

Mr. Higley said reports current it would cost $30,000 to replace the fallen bridge were fantastic and said he was sure it would cost less than half that amount to replace the 96-foot span.

A large crane will arrive on the scene of the fallen bridge late today and immediately start removal of the collapsed span. All steel necessary for erecting the new bridge is already on hand at state highway department Division 6 headquarters in Delaware. The concrete abutments which supported the old bridge will be used to support the ends of the new span which will be erected "for the present" in the same place.

To Change Location

When a new permanent bridge is erected, undoubtedly its location will be changed to eliminate the curves which form the approach to the present bridge site, Mr. Higley said. New steel piling vents will be sunk in the middle of Whetstone creek to support the new temporary span which is deemed by engineers to be "adequate" for the present bridge traffic which is estimated at 3,000 cars a day.

It is not the bridge or its location which causes the wrecks, its the drivers themselves, Mr. Higley added. This is the only serious accident we've ever had on the bridge and our records show that over a period of years an average of only one minor accident per year has been reported on the bridge or its approaches.

Mayor Paul Richeson of Cardington today lauded workmen of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. for their quick work in restoring gas service to Cardington. Gas and water lines which were attached to the bridge were severed when the bridge fell leaving all the village without gas and the part of the village east of the bridge was left without water service.

Gas Service Restored

At 4:30 p. m. yesterday gas service was restored to all the village east of the bridge was still without water. Residents of the area were drawing on nearby wells for water while the large Rivers in Delaware county that [illegible] taking its process [illegible] to Mt. Gilead for processing. Mayor Richeson could not say when water service would be restored.

Late yesterday afternoon a large work truck operated by Myers and Strope Co. of Mt. Gilead was carried to the collapsed bridge to remove the [illegible]

AUTO PLOWS INTO REAR OF HEAVY TRUCK

All Passengers in Machine Die in Route 30-N Collision Near Bucyrus.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Dec. 3. Two women and a man, all residents of Galion were killed at 2 a. m. today when their automobile crashed into the rear of a truck on route 30-N 2.1 miles west of here.

Patrolmen from the Marion substation of the state highway patrol identified the dead as Miss Anna L. Carr, 44, driver of the car, Miss Rita Weithman, 29, and Angelo Cirinelli, 43.

Cirinelli operated an overcoat manufacturing firm in Galion employing about 30 persons in subcontracting for the Ohio Overcoat Co. Miss Weithman was employed as bookkeeper at a Galion restaurant and Miss Carr was housekeeper for a Galion real estate dealer, Owen Carmel.

Patrolmen reported the car ploughed into the truck as the latter slowed down to pass another truck parked along the highway. The second truck had stopped for repairs.

Victims Pinned in Car

Impact of the crash drove the passenger car under the rear of the truck with such force that the dual rear wheels on the tractor-trailer were knocked loose, patrolmen said. The passenger car was demolished.

Top of the car, a 1939 Oldsmobile sedan, was so badly crushed that the bodies were removed from the wreckage only after considerable difficulty. It was feared for a short time that they would have to be cut loose. From the positions in which they were found, it was determined that Cirinelli had occupied the front seat with the driver and Miss Weithman the rear seat. There were no other passengers.

The victims were removed to the Wise Funeral Home in Bucyrus by ambulance. The bodies were viewed this morning by Dr. O. R. Kackley of Galion, Crawford county coroner. His verdict was accidental death.

Driver of Trucks

State highway patrolmen identified the driver of the truck into which the auto crashed as Angelo Stephens, 34, of Chicago. He was driving for a private hauler, J. J. Grazden of Dayton and carrying merchandise. The second truck belonged to the Akron-Chicago Transportation Co. and was in charge of E. B. Carr, (no relation to victim), of Akron.

Reconstructing the accident from details supplied by the truckers who were the only persons on the scene at the time of the crash, patrolmen said that the Akron truck, eastbound, had broken down and was parked along the highway. Warning flags and flares were properly displayed, it was noted.

The second truck also east bound, was in the act of slowing down after Stephens, the driver, glimpsed the burning flares up ahead marking the position of the first truck.

Car Rams Truck

While slowing down preparatory to passing, Stephens was rammed from the rear by the automobile. Road conditions were good and there was neither rain nor fog to affect visibility, the patrolmen indicated. Running lights were visible on the truck. Stephens was not held.

The accident occurred near the Point Place, a popular truckers stop about two miles west of town. It was not immediately established where the trio had been but Owen Carmel, for whom Miss Carr had been housekeeper for the last several years, indicated that he thought they were enroute home from Upper Sandusky after playing cards with friends at a private home near that city. He is the owner of the car Miss Carr was driving.

Miss Carr was born in Frametown, W. Va., a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carr. They survive with three brothers and two sisters, all of whom with the exception of a brother, live in West Va. She came to Galion from Akron five years ago. Funeral arrangements are as yet incomplete. Her body was removed from the Wise Funeral Home to the Lutz Funeral home here this morning.

New Washington Native

Miss Weithman was a native of New Wasnington, O., a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weithman. Her father survives along with a sister, Mrs. Junior Tracht, of Galion, a brother, Joseph of New Washington, a half brother and two half-sisters, all of New Washington. She was employed as bookkeeper at Carmel's restaurant in Galion. Arrangements for funeral services are not complete.

Angelo Cirinelli, a native of Italy, came to Galion five years

TRUMAN PLANS NO SHAKEUP

Leaves Way Open, However, for Cabinet Shuffle Later On.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 —President Truman is making no changes in his cabinet at this time.

That's what he said yesterday at his first White House news conference since the election. But he left the way open for some changes later by saying he reserves right to shuffle the cabinet membership at his pleasure.

The news conference was a lively one. His Nov. 2 election triumph was a major topic. Mr. Truman said he is proud he won with neither the 47 electoral votes of New York nor the 38 which southern Democrats gave to the States Rights party. As for those southern votes, the President dismissed moves to have them included in his electoral total. He doesn't want them, he said, adding that he's not angry with anyone.

Mr. Truman also set at rest speculation as to whether he will confer with Madame Chiang Kai-shek. The President said an appointment has been arranged but he would not say when it is.

Give Blunt Answer

As for whether General Douglas MacArthur would be sent from Japan to China to help the beleaguered Chinese Nationalists, Mr. Truman had a blunt answer. No period.

And he already had stated the administration policy on China he said, so he was having nothing to say on that again.

Then crowding, he took a couple of digs at his Republican opponent in the election, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

The first time at the opening of the conference Mr. Truman said Bradley Dewey, a civilian member of the Bikini atom tests evaluation board, was mistaken in suggesting the White House had suppressed a report on the tests.

Then the President grinned and said the conclusion of being overseen seemed to run with the name Dewey.

Hours and Dewey sally circled the press conference. He had been talking about factors which contributed to the election. After the President had named a number of

Mt. Vernon Bible Co., Newspaper Robbed

By The Associated Press

MOUNT VERNON, O., Dec. 3 — Safes of the Ohio Book & Bible House and the Mount Vernon News were robbed early today of a total of $1,100 in cash. The safecrackers obtained $1,000 at the Seventh Day Adventist publishing concern and the remainder at the newspaper office.

PLEADS INNOCENT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — Former Rep. Roger C. Slaughter, Missouri Democrat and political foe of President Truman, pleaded innocent today to a charge of violating the federal lobbying act. U. S. District Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut set bond at $1,000 for Slaughter's release and gave the defense until Dec. 24 to file motions.

Chorus To Sing 'Messiah' Here

Guest Musicians To Be in Event Sunday at Epworth Church.

First religious activity of the Marion community for the Christmas season will be the annual presentation of the oratorio, "The Messiah" by Handel Sunday night by the Marion Civic chorus and guest soloists and the musicians at Epworth Methodist church. This is the seventh presentation of this music under the present chorus organization of which Mrs. E. N. Hale is president. She is also contralto soloist for the performance. Hour of the program is 8:30.

Columbus musicians, Miss Florence McCracken and Prof. Norman Staiger of the music school faculty of Ohio State university will be the soprano and tenor soloist. A Marion man, Robert Miley, will sing the solo parts. Also from Columbus will be a string ensemble as instrumental group. The Civic chorus is composed of nearly 100 voices drawn from church choirs and other musical organizations of the city. Professor Rexford Keller, head of the school of music at Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware is the director.

Special endorsement of this program is being made this year by the Marion County Ministerial association. Rev. H. V. Fahr president of the association has issued a message to the public to respond in large attendance as an act of special Christmas homage stating that "until the eyes of the world were turned toward the manger in which the Prince of God lay, the world groped its way in the midst of haunting fears and specter-like superstitions. Now since that event of the first Christmas was heralded by the glad song of the hovering angels the world has had reason to sing, for the root cause of its fears are gone and the mysteries warrant no more superstitious dread. The Ruler of Life, whose purpose was goodness and praise and salvation is with us as we trust and adore Him, and permit His presence. Honor Him and, and be inspired afresh to proclaim Him King of King's and Lord of Lord's in your life, your home our distraught world, by witnessing the presentation of the superb musical production, "The Messiah," at Epworth Methodist church next Sunday evening."

GAS INQUIRY FINISHED

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Dec. 3 — A state utilities commission inquiry into alleged unauthorized heating with natural gas was completed yesterday. C. J. Reed, PUCO engineer, said he would make his report to the commission, Columbus. The East Ohio Gas Co. cut off gas service to several families here on grounds that they installed gas furnaces in violation of a PUCO order against new installations.

FIND COMPANY, CIO AT FAULT

Both North Electric Co., Union Violated Law in Galion, Mt. Gilead Strikes.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — A national labor relations board trial examiner ruled today that both a company and a union were guilty of coercing workers, in violation of the Taft-Hartley act, in an 80-day strike last year at the North Electric plant at Galion and Mt. Gilead.

Examiner Howard W. Myers said the company had violated the act by permitting a supervisor not eligible for membership in the CIO-United Auto Workers to attend a union organizing meeting, and by allowing supervisors to threaten workers who were joining up with the union.

Both the international union and Local 951 were guilty, Myers held, of using threats, acts of violence and mass picketing to keep non-strikers out of the plant.

He recommended that the company and unions be directed to cease and desist from such activities, and to post notices that they would not in future repeat the violations.

Myers' recommendations take the effect of a board order if neither party takes exception within 20 days. If they object, the five-man board itself will review the case.

The examiner said the union had committed unlawful acts by:

1 Mass picketing around the entrance of the plant in such a way as to prevent non-strikers from entering or leaving.

2 "Imprisonment" of a substantial number of workers in the plant on the night of Oct. 27, 1947.

3 Breaking more than 400 windows by rocks, railroad spikes and other missile.

4 Threatening non-strikers with possible physical injury.

The examiner said the UAW international was in on the violation because its representative, Edward J. Duck, helped direct the strike and picketing activities. Also, Myers found, Walter Murphy, assistant regional director for the UAW, was present with Duck at one of the mass picketing demonstrations.

The strike began on Aug. 20, 1947 one or two hours before a deadline fixed by the union for a decision to the company on an election to determine a bargaining agent.

The company manufactures telephone equipment and switchboards.

By International News Service

CHILLICOTHE, O., Dec. 3 — The fire which swept Trinity Methodist church in Chillicothe last Tuesday was declared today to have been of incendiary origin.

C. R. Lamonda of Marion, chief of the state arson bureau, said the investigation would be continued. Monday. Damage to the church is expected to exceed $10,000.

Says Cost of Eggs Due To Take Tumble

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 3 — Housewives may get some relief soon on the staggering cost of eggs, a department of agriculture spokesman said today. Wholesale grades dropped seven to eight cents a dozen.

"The eggs are piling up due to favorable weather conditions," he said. "There's no doubt about it, the market is weak and more price cuts are likely."

Farmers, he said, think retail prices in stores are far too high. Stores, however, sell the consumer grades to housewives. So far that market is holding steady.

But it will go down, too, he said.

[illegible] Head Benny Sheridan, freshman coach [illegible] for the Irish, speak at the [illegible] Harding and St. Mary football teams [illegible] Mary church. The dinner was sponsored [illegible] and the Harding and St. Mary Boosters.

"Were I a great football player, I'd rather play for Marion than for Notre Dame," he told members of the gridiron squads. "But [illegible] I'd rather play for Notre Dame than for any other team in the country."

Benny spoke [illegible] only 165 pounds [illegible] before [illegible] was appointed [illegible] Frank Leahy [illegible] Notre Dame [illegible] freshman team.

Secret of Success

"Time and again I have people ask me why is that Notre Dame always seems to come up with a winning team. When our men come [illegible] they are good ball players but it takes more than that. The secret is the spirit of Notre Dame. After a while they all become to feel it. It's through [illegible] that spirit that we learn to live and work together. I think the best symbol of that thing that you can't see but means so much is the Golden Dome of Notre Dame. It's the first thing you see and seems to symbolize the spirit of Notre Dame," he said to the 1948 Marion football teams.

Toastmaster Paul Hunt introduced Pete Howson, Harding head coach, and Forest (Treeze) Sharrock, St. Mary coach. Both thanked the football fans, their schools, and their booster clubs for their cooperation during the past season. They then asked the members of their squads to stand as they read off their names. A special guest of the program was Gene Fetter, football coach of St.

UNION COUNTY MAN FACES LIFE IN PEN

A Union county man, Paul Sanderson of Broadway race track stablehand, faced life in prison today for the slaying of another in a quarrel over a bucket of water at the state fairgrounds at Indianapolis, Sept 11, 1946, an Associated Press dispatch from Noblesville, Ind., reported today.

A jury convicted Sanderson, 45, of second degree murder in the ax killing of a fellow stablehand, Joseph Couch, 62, of Newark, O., the dispatch states

Sanderson was born and reared at Broadway where his mother Mrs. Charles Sanderson lives. He left there in May 1946 to join a race circuit and was employed by the Saunders Mills Stables of Toledo at the time of the slaying.

Sanderson testified he acted in self defense in the quarrel. He was tried on a first degree murder indictment after a jury in a previous trial had disagreed.

Judge Tom R. White did not pronounce sentence at once but the conviction carries a mandatory life term at Noblesville.

The case was tried on a change of venue.

William B. Warrington

KENTON—Funeral services for William B. Warrington, 61, mayor of Alger, who died Wednesday at San Antonio hospital here, will be Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at Alger First Methodist church. Burial will be in Preston cemetery, near Alger.

Warrington died after an illness of two weeks. He was born in Alger Jan. 15, 1887, where he was a farmer. He formerly served on the Alger board of education and as an Alger village councilman.

Surviving are the widow, Lottie D. Warrington; four daughters, Mrs. Iola Miller of Alger, and Hetta Gertrude, Lavonne and Rosabelle, all at home.

Walter H. Jones

MT. GILEAD—Walter H. Jones, 76, of Mt. Gilead died at 10:40 p. m. Thursday in St. Anthony hospital in Columbus. He was admitted to the hospital Monday. Cause of death was a heart attack. Mr. Jones was to have undergone an operation.

Born April 13, 1872, in Licking county, he was a son of John and Josephine Wince Jones. A resident of Mt. Gilead 20 years, he operated a turkey farm on Iberia street 15 years. He was a member of the Brush Ridge Baptist church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Olevia Jones, whom he married 53 years ago, and children, Miss Josephine Jones of Washington D. C., Mrs. Mary Younger of Kendallville, Ind., James L. Jones of Detroit, Mich., and John Ivan Jones of Columbus.

The body was brought to the Craven funeral home here.

Miss Mary McKinstry

BUCYRUS—Miss Mary McKinstry, 76, of Bucyrus died at 12:20 p. m. Thursday in Grant hospital in Columbus. She had been there five weeks.

Born June 23, 1872, in Bucyrus township, she was a daughter of W. T. McKinstry and Ella Warner McKinstry. She was a member of First Methodist church here and of the Ideal Workers class of the church.

Only close survivors are cousins, Mrs. Hazel Kuehm and J. W. Miller, both of Bucyrus, and Mrs. Carrie McLaughlin of Cleveland.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Wise funeral home by Rev. [illegible]

BRIDGE

[illegible] climed to tackle the job. The tractor of the truck was removed from the creek just before dark. Wreck crews found it necessary to almost dismantle the trailer to remove it from the creek bed. The collapse of the bridge almost severed the trailer, observers reported. One half of the trailer was lifted from the creek bed late last night while the remainder was removed early today as wreck crews worked all night.

R. R. Cross, driver of the tractor-trailer today denied he struck the bridge with his truck. He admitted, however, the possibility his trailer might have skidded, striking the bridge, a highway patrol spokesman said.

The truck, a large White tractor drawing an aluminum van type Fruhauf trailer, was enroute on route 42, main Cleveland-Cincinnati arterial highway, from Cleveland to Indianpolis, with a cargo of lumber, vacuum cleaners, strip brass for stamping plant use, and stamp metal toys.

Cross was following a fellow trucker at the time of the accident. The first truck crossed the bridge without mishap and proceeded on to Delaware where he waited an hour for Cross, not knowing he had been halted when the bridge collapsed. The other trucker proceeded to Dayton where he unloaded, and returned to look for Cross. Upon finding Cross' mishap, the other trucker loaded his van with the cargo from the wrecked truck and proceeded early today to Indianapolis with the load. Only some heavy brass castings which fell from the truck to the bottom of the Whetstone creek were missing from the transhipped load.

Cargo Damaged

Observers believed that much of the cargo had been damaged by water and the impact of the crash as the trailer fell to the creek bottom. The tractor part of the truck did not seem badly damaged when removed, onlookers said, the prin-

Drunken Driving Trial Opens Before Jury

Gene Edward Ruth, 19, [illegible] Marion, went on trial today before a jury of eight men and four men in municipal court on the charge of driving while intoxicated.

He entered a plea of not guilty to the charge through Walter Moore, his attorney, when originally arraigned before Judge Hazen on June 21, 1948. He was arrested on the charge by highway patrolmen on route 529 at 3:24 a. m. June 20.

Court attendants did not expect the case to reach the jury until late in the afternoon as both the state and the defendant had numerous witnesses to present testimony.

SEN. FLANDERS OWU SPEAKER

Calls for European Nations To Furnish Manpower in Any War with Russia.

By International News Service

DELAWARE, O Dec 3—Senator Flanders (R) of Vermont called for a peace-time defense setup in which European nations would furnish the military manpower in any war with Russia

At the same time Sen Flanders urged that the United States take the offensive in the cold war with the Soviet

Sen Flanders made the speech yesterday at Ohio Wesleyan university He declared that America's part in the defense of western civilization should be to establish command of sea and air routes as the arsenal of democracy and land forces to be made up of Europeans

The Vermont Republican said "We cannot and will not rely on ourselves the burden of defending an independent Western Europe even in our own interest Fortunately, there is no evidence that this will be required of us"

Sen Flanders hinted that pressure for formation of armies by European nations might be exerted on recipients of Marshall plan aid by saying

"We must keep this necessity of national defense in mind as the basic purpose of the European recovery program"

Sen Flanders called for the preparation of European military strength because, he said, "anything much greater than the fifteen billions we are devoting to the services will make the future rapid progress of inflation inescapable"

He asserted that if America depends on her manpower as the main source of infantrymen in a future overseas conflict, "we will not merely have lost the war, but we will have lost our political and social institutions and reduced the scale of living of our people to a basis of low subsistence"

"If, however, we can be prepared in the case of conflict with Russia to start from Germany instead of Spain, if our land forces are made up of the people of European nations . . . If we can support them by an overwhelming air protective canopy, and if our Navy can insure a constant stream of military supplies, then our moderate assignment of manpower is adequate to the struggle"

A similar attempt [illegible] toward the south was [illegible] and the German armies had nothing to look forward to except eventual surrender. Bradley kept hammering [illegible] the enemy lines and on April 14 the Americans launched a local [illegible] that split the pocket in two. Two days later the eastern half [illegible]. On the eighteenth the whole remaining garrison surrendered.

Originally we had estimated we would capture about 150,000 of the German Army in the Ruhr. In the final count the total reached 325,000 including 30 general officers. We destroyed twenty-one divisions and captured enormous quantities of supplies.

* * *

HITLER MUST HAVE hoped that the siege of the Ruhr would be as stubbornly contested as was that of Brest, but within eighteen days of the moment the Ruhr was surrounded it had surrendered with an even greater number of prisoners than we had bagged in the final Tunisian collapse almost two years earlier.

April 12 I spent with George Patton. Before the day ended the scenes I saw and news I heard etched the date in my memory. In the morning we visited some of Patton's scattered corps and divisions which were pushing rapidly eastward in a typical Patton thrust here and there surrounding and capturing isolated detachments of the disintegrating enemy.

There was no general line of resistance, or indeed even any coordinated attempt at delay. However, some of the local enemy detachments stubbornly defended themselves and we saw sporadic fighting throughout the day.

General Patton's army had overrun a [illegible] Nazi treasure hidden away in the mine levels [illegible] A group of [illegible] believed the shaft [illegible] a railroad under the surface of the [illegible]

[illegible] the mine were huge piles of [illegible] apparently [illegible] there in a last [illegible] effort to evacuate some [illegible] before the arrival of the Americans. In one of the tunnels was an enormous number of paintings and other pieces of art. Some of these were wrapped in paper and burlap, others were merely stacked together like cordwood.

In a [illegible] we saw a hoard of gold [illegible] estimated by our experts to be worth about $250,000,000, most of it in gold bars. These were in sacks, two twenty-five-pound bars to [illegible]. There was also a great deal of minted gold from the different countries of Europe and even a few pieces of gold coins from the United States.

* * *

CRAMMED INTO suitcases and trunks and other containers was a great amount of gold and silver plate and ornaments obviously looted from private hoards throughout Europe. All the artifacts had been flattened by hammer blows obviously to save storage space and then merely thrown into the receptacle, apparently pending an opportunity to melt them down into gold or silver bars.

It is probable, of course, that sooner or later the mine would have been carefully searched by the captors. But according to Patton, except for the instincts of human decency on the part of two Americans we might not have discovered it until much of it had been more securely hidden away. The story was this:

In the little neighboring town the attaching Americans had established a curfew law. Any civilian in the streets after dark was instantly picked up for questioning. One evening a roving patrol in a jeep saw a German woman hurrying along the street after curfew and stopped to speak to her. She protested that she was rushing off to get a midwife for her neighbor. The American soldiers decided to check on the story, being quite ready to help it should prove to be correct.

They took the German woman into their jeep, picked up the midwife, and returned to the accouchement, which was all as described by the German woman. The soldiers, still helpful, remained long enough to return the German woman and her midwife friend to their homes. As they were going along the street they passed the mouth of one of the salt mines of that region and one of the women remarked "That's the mine in which the gold is buried."

* * *

THIS REMARK excited the curiosity of the soldiers and they questioned the women sufficiently to learn that some weeks earlier great loads of material had been brought from the east to be put into the mine. The soldiers reported the story to their superiors, who, in turn, sought out some of the German officials of the mining corporation and the whole treasure fell into our hands.

The same day I saw my first horror camp. It was near the town of Gotha. I have never felt able to describe my emotional reactions when I first came face to face with indisputable evidence of Nazi brutality and ruthless disregard of every shred of decency. Up to that time I had known about it only generally or through secondary sources. I am certain, however, that I have never at any other time experienced an equal sense of shock.

I visited every nook and cranny of the camp because I felt it my duty to be in a position from then on to testify at first hand about these things in case there ever grew up at home the belief or assumption that "the stories of Nazi brutality were just propaganda." Some members of the visiting party were unable to go through the ordeal.

The day of April 12 ended on a note of dramatic climax. Bradley, Patton, and I sat up late talking of future plans, particularly of the selection of officers and units for early redeployment to the Pacific. We went to bed just before twelve o'clock. Bradley and I [illegible] in a small house at Patton's headquarters and [illegible] his trailer. His watch had stopped, and he turned on the radio to get the time signals from the British Broadcasting Corporation. While doing so he heard the news of President Roosevelt's death. He stepped back into the house woke up Bradley and then the two of them came to my room to tell me the shocking news.

* * *

WE PONDERED over the effect the President's death might have upon the future peace. We were certain that there would be no interference with the tempo of the war because we already knew something of the great measures afoot in the Pacific to accomplish the smashing of the Japanese. We were, of course, ignorant of any special or specific arrangements that President Roosevelt had made affecting the later peace. But we were doubtful that there was any other individual in America as experienced as he in the business of dealing with the other Allied political leaders.

With some of Mr. Roosevelt's political acts I could never possibly agree. But I knew him solely in his capacity as leader of a nation at war—and in that capacity he seemed to me to fulfill all that could possibly be expected of him.

Almost coincidentally with our arrival on the Elbe the Red Army launched a powerful westward drive from its positions on the Oder. The attack was on a front of more than two hundred miles. The Red drive made speedy progress everywhere. Its northern flank pushed in the direction of the Danish peninsula, the center toward Berlin, and the southern flank toward the Dresden area. On April 25 patrols of the 69th Division of the V Corps met elements of the Red Army's 58th Guards Division on the Elbe. The meeting took place at Torgau, some seventy-five miles south of Berlin.

Because of differences in language front-line radios were useless as a means of communication between the two converging forces. The only solution to the problem seemed to lie in timely agreements upon markings and procedures.

* * *

AS EARLY as the beginning of April the air forces of the Western Allies and the Russians had come into contact, with some unfortunate results. Shots had been exchanged between Red aircraft and our own, and the danger of major clashes continued to increase.

The task of organizing a system of recognition signals was laborious and was not fully accomplished until April 20. However both sides had already agreed upon restraining lines for the use of their air forces, and by the exercise of care, accompanied by a considerable degree of good fortune, no really serious errors took place.

The mission of Devers's Sixth Army Group during the early days of April was to protect the right flank of Bradley's advance. To carry out this mission Devers organized a methodical advance by Patch's Seventh Army on his left and the French First Army on his right.

The French Army, of course, went into the attack under the orders of General Devers, who was responsible for the allocation of army boundaries, routes of supply, and all the other administrative arrangements necessary for troop maintenance throughout his army group. These boundaries placed the city of Stuttgart in Patch's Seventh Army zone, because the supply routes of the Americans would necessarily run through that place. The city was captured by the French, who afterward refused to evacuate to permit its use by Patch.

So unyielding were the French in their assertion that national prestige was involved that the argument was referred to me. I instructed Devers to stand firm and to require compliance with his plan. The French still proved obstinate and referred the matter to Paris. Not content with this, General de Gaulle continued to maintain an unyielding attitude on the governmental level in his reply to a sharply worded message from the President of the United States on the subject. The threat of a possible curtailment of equipment for the French forces proved effective, and the French finally complied.

* * *

THE FRENCH POSITION in the war was of course not an easy one. Once known as the foremost military power of Europe, their army as well as their pride had been shattered in the great debacle of 1940. Consequently when the Torch invasion of 1942 again gave patriotic Frenchmen an opportunity to join in the fight against the Nazis they were sensitive to all questions of national pride and honor. Nevertheless, America's investment in the French forces paid magnificent dividends.

Among the French were numbers of important individuals who never caused the slightest trouble, men whose breadth of vision and understanding of the issues at stake made them splendid allies. I personally liked General de Gaulle, as I recognized in him many fine qualities.

We felt, however, that these qualities were marred by hypersensitiveness and an extraordinary stubbornness in matters which appeared inconsequential to us. My own war-time contacts with him never developed the heat that seemed to be generated frequently in his meetings with many others.

When Bremen finally fell to Montgomery's force April 26, the resistance in his front became markedly weaker. He quickly transferred his main effort to the sector of the British 2 Corps which [illegible] an attack across the Luneburg Heath. The U. S. XVIII Corps made a simultaneous cross [illegible] and protected right flank protection [illegible] the British Second Army in its further advances.

* * *

ON MAY 1 the 11th Armored Division of the British 8 Corps began a [illegible] dash across Schleswig Holstein to the Baltic and entered Lubeck on the afternoon of May 2. This sealed off the entire area in Denmark and effectively prevented any of the defeated forces in Germany from withdrawing into that country.

Meanwhile everywhere the Allied front was gaining all along its front and on May 3 the U. S. XVIII Corps made contact with the Russians at Wismar, between Lubeck and Schwerin, and the northern flank of the Red Army's attack swerving in that direction almost [illegible] all resistance ceased.

Swarms of Germans streaming back from the Russian front now began giving themselves up to the Anglo-American armies. American troops standing on the Elbe daily received these prisoners by the thousands.

* * *

The Wagnerian ending which Hitler had so carefully planned for his Third Reich was the disintegration of a massive army and the collapse of an entire continent. General Eisenhower held right to a few simple rules in the confusion which swirled all around the Allied armies. They led him without major trouble even with the Russians, to the fateful moment in the early morning of May 7 when Field Marshal Jodl signed an unconditional surrender in Eisenhower's office at Reims, saluted, and walked out. The war was over.

General Eisenhower's own account of this great climax to his "Crusade in Europe" will be published tomorrow.

"IKE" VIEWS TORTURE METHODS. General Eisenhower looks on grimly as occupants of concentration camp at Gotha demonstrate how they were tortured by Nazi sadists operating the camp. Ike visited the camp while on tour of the U. S. Third Army front. With him are Gen. George S. Patton (left), of the Third Army, and Gen. Omar N. Bradley (second from left), Commander 12th Army Group.

Method of Heating Homes By Electricity Spreads

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 — A method of heating homes by electricity has spread to the commercial building field for the first time in this country. The method was first developed in France.

The heat is supplied by tempered glass panels, 16 by 24 inches, on the back of which are fused grids of an aluminum alloy. A panel gives off heat when an electric current passes through the grid.

A complete installation has just been made in an entire office building on 35th street near Fifth avenue.

Warmth generated by the glass panels is known as radiant heat, which warms the walls, furniture and people in a room rather than the air. Radiators and hot air ducts produce convection heat, which warms the air and the air in turn warms the objects in a room.

Radiant heat by glass panels was used abroad before the war. France's Maginot line had them, as well as Parisian apartment houses.

Installations have been made in homes in this country out on a limited scale because the new product has been on the market only a short time. Commercial use has been even more limited.

The building in which the large-scale installation has just been made is a six-story structure housing a local unit of the Building Service Employes International Union (AFL) and the Continental Radiant Glass Heating Corp. The heating company holds the patent rights for glass panel heating in the United States by agreement with a French concern.

Basil Needham, president of Continental Radiant, says the costs of a new home can be cut "by at least $1,000" by use of the coated glass panels.

For the first time, he says, electricity is on a competitive footing with heat-producing fuels.

He estimates that a 6-room, 8,000 cubic foot house, with 220-volt wiring, can be equipped with the necessary master control box, thermostats and panels at a total installed cost of about $500.

Juniors at Claridon Will Present Play

"The Campbells Are Coming," a farce comedy with hillbilly trimmings in three acts, will be presented by the junior class of the Claridon High school at 8 p. m. Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 7 and 8, in the school auditorium.

Class members taking part on Tuesday night include Martha Price, Joanne Roush, Buddy Kimball, Robert Bull, Paul McChesney, Donald Myers, Laura Mae Wickersham, Doris Denzer, Patty Heffley and Joe Lawrence.

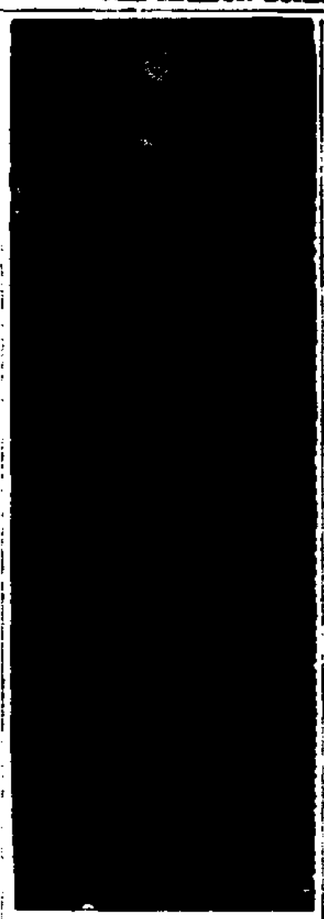
Those taking part on Wednesday night are: Martha Price, Joanne Roush, Buddy Kimball, Robert Dykes, Loren Fulton, Raymond Auld, Robert Burris, Doris Montgomery, Mary Weaver and Vivia Jones.

The stage managers and prompters are: Edward Lemke, Jack Pickett, Charles Burris, Glenn Knapp and Dick Thomas.

Entertainment between acts will be furnished by Ann Shelton, Jo Earl and Charles Ruth, accompanied by Mrs. Nate Shelton.

Mrs. Frances Strine, class advisor, is directing the play.

Wooden airplane propellors can be electroplated to provide resistance to abrasion and warpage.



YULE TREE LIGHTED — As crowds fill Pershing Square, Los Angeles, a giant Christmas tree is lighted to herald the coming of the Yule holiday. Twenty-eight switches, thrown by Mayor Bowron, turned on 1,800 colored lights. It is 95 feet high.

ALABAMA JURY SHOWS NEGRO CAN GET JUSTICE

By The Associated Press

WETUMPKA, Ala., Dec. 3—An all-white jury trying a white man for raping a young Negro woman answered a prosecutor's plea that it prove a Negro "can get justice" in an Alabama court.

The jurors, in short order, found John C. Howard Jr., operator of a garage and a mattress factory, guilty and sent him off to prison for 45 years.

They wanted to go even further—fix it so Howard could not get a pardon or parole. But Circuit Judge Oakley Melton told them not "to worry about" that.

Howard, from Friendship, Ala., was convicted last night of raping 22-year-old Melinda Jackson last April 25. Next on the court's docket is the trial of his cousin, Jack Oliver, 20, on an indictment that he raped Melinda's 23-year-old companion, Annie Grayson, at the same time.

CHURCH COUNCIL TO HOLD ELECTION

Bishop Stamm of Harrisburg Seen Next President.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Dec. 3—Bishop John S. Stamm of Harrisburg, Pa. was expected today to be elected president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America at the final session of its 40th annual convention.

Present vice president of the council, Bishop Stamm is senior bishop of the Evangelical United Brethren church.

Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, first woman commissioner by the Navy as wartime head of the WAVES, was favored to become council vice president without a contest.

President of Wellesley college, she will be the first woman ever elected—to hold a major Federal Council office.

Charles P. Taft, the retiring president, told the council last night that religion can never save the world unless it gears itself to modern-day economic facts of life.

And, he asserted, American churches are paying "practically no attention" to this basic problem of religion.

Aside from election of officers, the final sessions of the three-day biennial conference were occupied mainly with acting upon reports made by six study groups who discussed church responsibility on problems ranging from juvenile delinquency to human rights. The reports generally reaffirmed previous council stands.

Late yesterday, the council voted into membership the Romanian Orthodox Church in America and the Religious Society of Friends of Philadelphia and Vicinity. This boosted the council membership to 27 denominations with slightly more than 28,000,000 communicants. The Romanian group has 21,000 members; the Friends 5,000.

Six Children Die As Fire Sweeps Home

By The Associated Press

OSHKOSH, Wis., Dec. 3 — Six [illegible] a fire which destroyed their home last night.

The fire took the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Carpenter shortly before midnight. Police said Carpenter lost them all. A heater ignited the women and he was prevented by flames from reaching the bedroom where the children were sleeping. Mrs. Carpenter was away at the time on an errand for a sick neighbor.

The dead were Rose Mary, 7, Charlotte 5, Russell, 4, Kenneth, 3, Barbara, 2 and Sandra, 4 months. They were burned and suffocated, police said.

5 HURT IN CITY BUS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 3 — Five persons were injured when a crowded Leonard-East Fifth avenue bus hit the rear of a trailer truck yesterday. Chester Brown, 38, of New Albany, the bus driver, suffered a possible leg fracture and abdominal injuries. Four passengers also were hurt. A fire in the bus instrument panel was put out quickly.

ARDREY MOTOR SALES, INC.
264 North Main St. Phone 2086

Dear Reader:

If you want to find out where you can obtain the best auto service available, all you have to do is ask any one whose car or truck has been serviced at Ardrey's. You will in turn receive some very good answers.

Each customer who visits Ardrey Motor Sales, Inc., for service on his car, receives a postal card asking the question, "Why did you select Ardrey's for your present source of service?"

We received the cards in due time and after examining them we found some very interesting returns. From the many answers we receive daily, we would like to quote a few:

"We selected Ardrey's because of their knowledge of cars;" "I think Ardrey's give better workmanship;" "We like their use of Factory Engineered Parts," and "Ardrey's give a good prompt service."

However, the one which proved to be the most outstanding over those listed above is "COURTESY AMONG ALL EMPLOYEES."

If you want to see the word "COURTESY" in action, bring your car to Ardrey's, where every one displays personal interest in your needs with the kind of service that really makes friends.

Cooperatively yours.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5 — The possible [illegible] new Soldiers' [illegible] ing of the Apple Creek [illegible] Penal Museum [illegible] State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson [illegible] fine today.

Ferguson ordered [illegible] payment [illegible] for the construction at the Wayne county [illegible] of the state [illegible] Wing of the [illegible] between state [illegible]

[illegible] disputed that Gattozzi [illegible] [illegible] of errors [illegible] [illegible] and that Gattozzi [illegible] [illegible] of architectural business, could not handle [illegible]

Gattozzi countered that Sowers was interested in making trouble for the contractor.

Ferguson said he was taking no sides and only wanted to be sure [illegible] are not going to be [illegible]

State officials here said that Gattozzi was given the job of designing the hospital building in 1943, early in the administration of former Gov. Frank J. Lausche. He had never before done work for the state welfare department, for whom the hospital is being built, they said.

The Cleveland architectural firm of Garfield, Harris, Robinson & Schaefer had the contract for the preliminary plans, officials said, and was paid $17,000, or one per cent of the $1,700,000 cost as estimated in 1944.

When Gattozzi received the contract, on recommendation of the governor's office, officials said, he allowed the state a $5,000 credit against his own fee for preliminary plans by using part of the other firm's work.

Officials said Gattozzi had received $160,000 of the $190,000 he would have received in architect's fees had he not been dismissed.

RULES TENANT MAY TUB TO HER HEART'S CONTENT

By The United Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 — A landlady was asked court orders today to allow her tenant to take as many baths as she wanted.

Magistrate Florence W. Kelley ruled yesterday that bathing is a human right that takes precedence over property rights, and that the landlady therefore should not turn off the hot water while the tenant was in the middle of a bath.

The tenant was Mrs. Prudence Hergenrother, 69, who obtained a summons against her landlady, Mrs. Bella Chave, of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Chave said Mrs. Hergenrother seemed to be eternally taking baths, which put a strain on the 65-gallon hot water tank in the house. Mrs. Hergenrother said she was under the care of a physician who had ordered frequent hot baths.

IRISH OPEN AGAINST COLUMBUS ST. MARY

A battle of St. Marys will take place tomorrow night when the Irish travel to Columbus to meet the St. Mary Ramblers in their first cage contest of the season. Treeze Sharrock has cut the Marion St. Mary squad to 20 men and of that number 15 will board buses for the trip.

"The squad is slowly getting the idea of teamwork in practice," said coach Sharrock. With only one letterman on the team, guard Corky Cusick, the Irish will probably come up slow but as in football should be a power by the latter part of the season, he said.

Starting tomorrow night will be Bill Merchant and Jimmy Cusick at forward, Bill Moloney at center, and Ed Moloney and Corky Cusick at guard. Other Irish who should see action in the Irish opener are forwards Tommy Rizzo and Jimmy Dunn, center Jerry Wensinger, and guards Bob Armbruster, Nick Maniaci, and Dave Krigbaum.

In practice the Irish have been strictly up and down, said Treeze. One night they look bad and the next afternoon they click. Because of a lack of height, sessions have been largely devoted to passing and ball handling. The Irish defense is man to man and no zone is used.

As if a lack of experience and height isn't enough the Irish will have another handicap facing them in tomorrow night's contest. The St. Mary men hold all their practices on the small YMCA floor but tomorrow night they will be playing on the Columbus Knights of Columbus gym hardwoods, one of the largest in the big town.

Treeze still has the problem of football playing mixed in with cage drill. It is easy to see why. Eight of his first ten men were members of the St. Mary grid squad.

LAMOTTA RULES 1-2 CHOICE OVER YAROSZ

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 3—Tommy Yarosz gets his big chance tonight against ring-wise Jake LaMotta who rules a 1 to 2 favorite to win their 10-round duel at Madison Square Garden.

New financial worlds will open for 26-year-old Yarosz from Monaca, Pa., if he can upset the "Bronx Bull." LaMotta needs a convincing victory to re-establish his ranking. He was handed a surprising fourth-round technical knockout by Billy Fox last year. The pick here is the underdog Yarosz.

Among the plums that may await the winner is an over-the-weight match this winter with Marcel Cerdan, the middleweight champion. However, the margin must be sharp and decisive for the winner to rate even a non-title shot at the champ.

Both will be on trial with some 10,000 fans who are expected to pay $40,000 for the privilege. After the Fox debacle, the fans want to see how much LaMotta has left. Many are skeptical about Yarosz' ability to mingle with the topnotchers, despite his fine record.

After the LaMotta-Fox fight in November of 1947, the New York state athletic commission made a complete investigation. Purses were held up for a time but later were paid. LaMotta drew an indefinite suspension and $1,000 fine for "concealing vital facts about his physical condition before the fight." The ban was lifted June 21.

SCORES WAY UP IN OHIO CAGE GAMES

By The Associated Press

The scores were way up there again in last night's college basketball games.

The Toledo Rockets ran up a 92 to 39 score to beat Defiance college. The Rockets were ahead 42 to 15 at the half as they coasted to their second win of the season.

Len Rhoades and Al Zuber, Toledo forwards, were high point men with 12 apiece. Defiance was playing its second game in two nights.

Hillsdale (Mich.) college, also playing its second game in two nights, was swamped by Akron, 78 to 45. Seventeen Zippers got into the game and four scored 11 or more points. Hank Baughn of Akron topped the scoring with 18 points.

Rio Grande college went to Richmond, Ind., to take a 59-33 beating from the Earlham Quakers. The high point man was Newt Oliver, Rio Grande's national scoring champion, with 13 points. He had 729 points in the 1947-48 season.

VEECK CONTRIBUTES $200 TO WIDOW'S FUND

By The Associated Press

SANDUSKY, O., Dec. 3—President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians has contributed $200 to the fund being raised to build a home for Mrs. Bernard Millis, a widow with nine children.

A total of $2,581 has been contributed so far.

Mrs. Millis' husband and a Milan businessman were killed in a plane crash while returning from a World Series game in Cleveland.

ILLINOIS OPENS BIG 9 CAGE PROGRAM TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 — Illinois opens the Big Nine's weekend program of basketball competition with non-conference teams in Champaign tonight when the Illini entertain Butler. It will be the season's opener for both squads.

Both the Illini and the Bulldogs from Indianapolis will present an all-veteran lineup. It will be the 13th meeting between the two schools, with Butler holding a 7 to 5 edge in the series.

Tomorrow, seven Western conference teams will meet non-league opponents. Michigan, defending Big Nine champion, will play host to Michigan State; Western Michigan goes to Northwestern; Ohio State entertains Butler; Western Illinois travels to Minnesota; De Pauw is at Indiana; Colorado college invades Iowa; and Marquette goes to Madison to play Wisconsin.

On Sunday, Michigan meets Toledo at Ann Arbor. Purdue swings into action on Monday with a game with Detroit at Lafayette.

Toledo Golden Gloves To Be Held Feb. 7-14

By International News Service

TOLEDO, Dec. 3 — Toledo's Golden Gloves tournament will be held February 7, 11, and 14 at the Sports arena with more competition expected than ever before.

Champions in their respective divisions will travel as Toledo representatives to Chicago and in further Gloves competition as well as in state and other AAU meets following a similar pattern to that adopted by Cleveland and Chicago.

Syracuse and Penn State first met on the football field in 1922.

Road Back Is Long, but Conn Is Confident

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 — There is a long road back to fame and fortune that Billy Conn must travel before he can hope to take a third crack at Joe Louis for the world's heavyweight crown.

But Conn insisted today that he will go uphill all the way and coast into a title match with the champion.

He embarked upon that long road this week as he opened drills for a six round, no-decision contest with Louis Dec. 10 in Chicago.

In between preliminary drills in Ringside gym he puffed:

"If I make a good showing against Louis, I want to meet the winner of the Joe Baksi-Ezzard Charles match."

Baksi and Charles meet in New York the same night as Conn mixes it up with Louis in the Windy City.

Conn, twice defeated by the champion, once by a knockout two years ago last June 19, figures he can beat either Charles or Baksi.

An then, he says:

"If I do, I should be in a position to fight Louis again for the title."

Conn now weighs 188 pounds, six more than at the time of his last fight with Louis.

The Pittsburgh boxer looked impressive in his first sparring workout since his ninth-round knockout over Jackie Lyons of Oklahoma City in Dallas a week ago.

Several miles away from Conn's training quarters, the champ himself was out running on a long road. He would be able to tell Conn come the night of Dec. 10 about bad nights in the ring.

And he also figures he could correct any impression Billy might have about their last two meetings.

DOAK WALKER NAMED UP PLAYER OF YEAR

By The United Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 — Doak Walker, Southern Methodist's backfield ace, today was named the football player of the year in a United Press poll of football writers and sports broadcasters from every section of the nation.

The all-around star of the Southwest conference champions received the votes of 101 of the 280 persons participating in the poll. At the same time he was named back of the year, receiving 139 out of 294 votes cast in that poll.

They were the third and fourth major honors accorded Walker this week. On Tuesday, he was chosen for the Heisman trophy, awarded annually to the nation's outstanding collegiate football player and on Wednesday he was named for the second successive season on the 1948 United Press All-America football team.

DAYTON TURNS DOWN BIDS TO TWO BOWLS

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Dec. 2 — The football Flyers of the University of Dayton will spend the Christmas holidays at home and not chasing a bowl victory.

The team voted yesterday against accepting invitations to play either in the Camellia bowl game Dec. 30 at Lafayette, La., or the Basin bowl at Odessa, Tex. The latter already had been turned down by a western Ohio neighbor, Miami university of Oxford.

The Rev. Charles L. Collins, athletic director, said the players rejected the invitations because they wanted to be with their families during the Christmas period or had vacation jobs.

U. S., Europe Plan Lend Lease Exchange of Athletic Visits

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 3—The United States and Europe are planning a sort of "athletic lease" plan involving the exchange of track teams.

Under the setup, American leading amateur stars make a tour of continental centers and Europe's best do their stunts in the U. S.

Encouragement of the exchange was discussed by the Amateur Athletic Union's foreign relations committee last night. The AAU is holding its 60th annual convention here.

While the athletic fathers were talking over the plan, steps were being taken for the first of the exhibitions.

It was announced that Mrs. Fanny Blankers-Koen, the Dutch housewife who was the feminine star of the 1948 Olympics in London, would compete in a number of indoor events in this country in January.

Mrs. Blankers-Koen won the women's 100 and 200-meter races, the 80-meter hurdles and ran on the winning 400-meter relay team in the games.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the AAU's 21 national governing bodies yesterday, James A. Rand said that less heed should be given to the "emotional appeal" of the United States in international sports affairs.

"We must attend the international meetings," he declared. "After all, we are the largest amateur sports body in the world but when it comes to diplomacy and diplomatic relations we are the smallest.

"Too often we depend on business men who happen to be traveling in Europe to represent us. We should show more leadership and send delegates of our own selection at our own expense."

The Columbus, Ohio, man said it appeared to him that the International Amateur Athletic Federation was controlled within a radius of 150 to 200 miles from Paris.

"This is our own fault," he said.

Los Angeles Feels Quake As Powerful Irish Roll Into Town

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3—There was a slight quake and a blaze out in west Los Angeles today. It wasn't an earth shaker. It was the Notre Dame football team rolling into town.

There was a bit of shaking across the loose-nuts of the entire city, the heads shaking in negative fashion. They reflected the attitude of most of the supporters of the Cardinal and Gold of the University of Southern California.

The Trojans said the heat wagglers might put up a good battle against the fleeted, famous Fighting Irish from South Bend in the 20th renewal of their great warfare tomorrow.

But there was a ring to warbler hope for anything except perhaps a score closer than last year's 38-7 walloping. Even this was hazardous thinking because the 1948 Trojan eleven, on paper, anyhow, isn't even rated as good as the one last year.

Joe Novak Succeeds Dudley as PGA Head

By The Associated Press

DUNEDIN, Fla., Dec. 3—The Professional Golfers Association of America has a new president in Joe Novak but no change is likely in the policies under which the PGA prospered during the seven-year regime of Ed Dudley.

Novak has been PGA secretary under Dudley for three years.

Novak, 50-year-old pro at the Bel-Air club in Los Angeles for 21 years, won with ease over Horton Smith, Detroit pro, in yesterday's election.

Smith's supporters then made a bid to get him the secretary's spot vacated by Novak, but the decision went to Marty Lyons of Philadelphia. John Budd of Endicott, N. Y., was third.

Bill Witherspoon of Tulsa, Okla., was reelected treasurer without opposition.

College Football Takes Final Fling Before Year-End Bowls

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. The college football season takes a final fling on a few scattered gridirons this weekend before plunging into the scattered bowls.

Some 100,000 customers will jam Memorial coliseum at Los Angeles to watch Notre Dame tangle with Southern California. The Irish will be heavy favored to wind up their [illegible] straight season [illegible] a defeat.

In Charleston, S. C., Clemson, one of the three other major unbeaten teams of the year, will [illegible] the Citadel defend a [illegible] and stadium in which should be a flurry of Tiger touchdowns. Big winning Clemson can capture the Southern conference championship.

And at Birmingham, Ala., Auburn and the University of Alabama will meet on a football field for the first time since 1907.

Two games are scheduled tonight. Vanderbilt, with seven straight victories, plays the University of Miami at Miami, Fla., and the University of Richmond visits Rollins College at Winter Park, Fla.

Eight bowl games are on the weekend card. Contests today and tomorrow include Oklahoma City vs. Toledo in the Glass bowl at Toledo; Missouri Valley vs. Evansville, Ind.; Florida A. and M. vs. Union of Richmond, Va., in the Orange Blossom bowl at Miami; Hampton vs. Wilberforce in the Fish bowl at Norfolk, Va., and Maquett A. and M. vs. Eastern Oklahoma A. and M. in the Possum bowl at Oklahoma City.

On Saturday, John Carroll meets Canisius in the Great Lakes bowl at Cleveland; San Francisco State and Southern La. university meet in the Pear bowl at San Francisco; Texas and Virginia Teachers and Southeast Missouri Teachers tangle in the Mule bowl at Kansas City.

BOWLING

The Osgood Affiliated Bowling league was the hottest thing in Marion kegling Wednesday night. Miller had the highest single game score for the evening with 237, but there were many others who had nigh scores. Thorpe had 215, Cox 212, Fields 211, Augenstein 207, Bailey 203, Lewis 201, Williams 200.

In the Business Men's loop Robinson led for single games with 224 and turned in another nice game of 201. Robbins hit for 218, Gast for 202, and Felter for 201 in the same league. Owen topped single games with 214 to lead the Fairfield Bowling league while Clark bowled 205 and Tennant turned in 201.

Grace Gunder copped all the honors in the Ladies All-Star league, leading both departments with nifty scores of 203 single and 512 series.

The New Governors

Notable Victories Scored By Browning of Tennessee

One of a series of 22 articles on new governors chosen in the November election.

• • •

By The Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 3 — Gordon Browning will take office as Tennessee governor in January thanks to two overwhelming victories this year.

In the Democratic primary election Browning piled up a four-to-three margin over Gov. Jim McCord and gave the E. H. Crump organization at Memphis its first beating in a state wide race in 20 years.

In the general election Browning obtained a two-to-one margin over Republicans Roy Acuff, radio entertainer who put on a fiddling campaign that reached every county of the state.

Browning, who will be just past 59 when he takes office, was governor for one term in 1937 and 1938 and at that time put through a massive debt and fiscal reorganization plan for Tennessee.

He was supported by Crump when he was elected in 1936 but soon after his inauguration Browning split with the Memphis politico. A Crump-supported candidate beat him in the 1938 Democratic primary.

Browning was born on a west Tennessee farm and after being graduated from Valparaiso university did a little farming and a little teaching before going to Cumberland university to get a law degree. His law career was interrupted by World War I. He was an artillery officer.

Browning was elected to congress in 1922 and for five additional terms, then ran unsuccessfully for U. S. senator in 1934.

After retiring from the governor's office in 1938 he became a chancery judge at his home in Huntington.

He reentered the Army during the Second World war and came out of the service a lieutenant colonel a year after the end of the war.

Even before his return his friends began to boost him as an anti-Crump candidate for governor. Crump was the chief issue, but in his campaign this year Browning also promised constitutional reform, modification of the state's new two per cent sales tax and elimination of the poll tax.

Farm Short Course To Open at Cardington

The first meeting of the Cardington Adult and Young Farmer association will be held in the vocational agriculture room in Cardington public schools at 8 p. m. on Monday night.

It is planned to elect officers for the current year and to appoint a committee to draw up discussion topics.

The discussion topic for the Monday meeting will be "Maintenance of Farm Buildings and Equipment." The discussion leader is planning to use a series of slide film in presenting the topic.

In order to meet the needs of both the young farmers and adult farmers in the Cardington school district and surrounding areas it is planned to offer a farm shop course for two or three nights each month and offer short course meeting discussing agriculture [illegible] one or two nights each [illegible] basketball team will be organized in conjunction with the short course.

Ohio Farm Prices Dropped Last Month

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 3 — The federal-state crop reporting service today said that the general level of prices received by Ohio farmers dropped slightly during the month ended Nov. 15.

Corn declined 22 cents per bushel during the month the reporting service said, while prices of hogs dropped $3.10 per hundred pounds. Milk sold at wholesale at $4.85 per hundred pounds on Nov. 15 was 10-cents less than the price received in mid-October.

All principal grains brought lower prices on [illegible] 15 of this year than they did [illegible] same date in 1947, the report [illegible]. The grain decline ranged from 19 cents per bushel for [illegible] cents for corn.

Hog prices were $3.10 per [illegible] dred pounds [illegible]

Caledonia Youth Group Guests at "Pow-Wow"

Guests of the men's group of the Caledonia Church of Christ for an "Indian Pow-wow" program Wednesday night were 40 young people from the Sixth grade through High school. The event was held in the town hall. Four "tribes" were formed, and each was judged for performance of Indian rites, decoration of its chief, "corn planting" relay, war dance, sign language demonstration, and dramatization of the story of Pocahontas and John Smith. This was followed by a "scalping and "Indian mixup."

The group sang conference songs and religious choruses, followed by a sermonette by the pastor, Rev. Melvin Keeran, in which was emphasized the "importance of religion in our daily lives." A friendship circle and sentence prayers concluded the meeting. Adult supervisors of the activities were Lester Mason, Forest Hissher, Thomas Myers and Mervin Ray.

OHIO DEMOCRATIC SOLONS TO HOLD CAUCUS SOON

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Dec. 3 — The 69 Democrats of the house of representatives of the new legislature will organize in Columbus next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Rep. Anna F. O'Neill, senior house Democrat after seven terms, issued the call for the caucus of the new majority party yesterday.

She set the date for Tuesday, but said if the special session of the retiring legislature lasts past Monday, the caucus will be held Wednesday.

GRAIN MARKET

Local Grain Market

(Producers Livestock Cooperative Association Quotations)

Thursday price after 2 p. m.
Wheat 2.24, No. 3 white oats 82

Range

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 — Grains opened mostly higher on the board of trade today. The only exception was December corn, which eased a bit in view of large deliveries of cash grain on these contracts. Announcement of export sales of some 574-211,000 bushels of all grains for the first quarter of 1949 gave the market support.

Wheat started fairly firm, ½ higher, December $2.49½, corn was ¼ lower to ¼ higher, December $1.13¾@¼, and oats were unchanged to ¼ higher, December 83@84.

LEGAL NOTICE

The Board of Education of Montgomery Local School District of Marion County, Ohio, will receive bids for the construction of a gymnasium to be constructed upon the grounds of said school district at Meeker, Ohio.

Bids will be received until 12:00 M. (E. S. T.) on the 20th day of December, 1948, by the Board of said school district at the offices of said Board of Education in said school, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud and at which time following the receipt of said bids, formal action will be taken toward the awarding of the contract.

Plans, specifications and estimates are on file at the office of the Clerk of said Board and also at the office of Thomas W. Bashore, Architect, 132½ East Center Street, Marion, Ohio, and includes the furnishing of labor, at the wage rates prevailing in Marion County, Ohio, and the attention of bidders is directed to the specific statutory provisions governing the prevailing rate of wages to be paid laborers and mechanics employed on [illegible] improvement as set forth in the specifications and materials following items: Plumbing, plumbing fixtures, [illegible] sheet metal work, electrical and general contracting [illegible] invited for the whole or any separate trades as set forth in the plans and specifications.

Each bid must be accompanied by cash or certified check on some solvent bank in an amount equal to Five Per Cent (5%) of the estimated cost of the improvement, made payable to the order of the Treasurer of said Board of Education for the benefit of said Board of Education which will be forfeited by the successful bidder or bidders in case they fail to enter into a contract within fifteen (15) days of the date of the award.

Drawings and specifications may be obtained from the Architect for the personal use of the contractor upon deposit of a check in the amount of Ten Dollars ($10.00). The amount of the deposit will be returned to the contractor upon the return of set of plans and specifications.

The successful bidder will be required to give bond in an amount equal to One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the contract price as security for the faithful performance of this contract and for the payment of all persons performing labor on the project and furnishing material in connection with the contract.

Bids may be made upon blank forms furnished by the Architect and may be for the whole or any of the separate trades mentioned in the plans and specifications. The bid must not exceed the estimate as set forth in said plans and specifications.

The Board of Education of Montgomery Local School District of Marion County, Ohio, reserves the right to accept the bid deemed best for the interest of the school and to reject all bids.

The Board of Education of Montgomery Local School District, Marion County, Ohio
By Lowell Yates, Clerk.

Steve Canyon By Milton Caniff

GEE I CAN'T GET IT OUT OF MY MIND HOW THAT BLONDE NATIVE GIRL THREW HER ARMS AROUND MY NECK—THINK SO I WAS SOMEBODY ELSE.
SHE SMELLED SO GOOD MISS FAMILY SMELLS GOOD TOO BUT SHE WEARS SOME OTHER KIND OF PERFUME
I FELT TERRIBLE BECAUSE MISS FAMILY KICKED ME OUT—TIL THAT GIRL RAN UP TO ME
IF MR. CANYON COULD HAVE SEEN THAT HE MIGHT NOT THINK I'M SUCH A KID! HEY! WOULDN'T THE GUYS BACK AT SCHOOL HAVE BEEN IMPRESSED?
AHEM! I THINK I'LL GO OUT AND LOOK AROUND! MIGHT RUN INTO SOME WOMEN I'VE MET IN MY TRAVELS!

By The United Press

CHICAGO—Automobile assembly line methods made it possible for Charles Jones, Jennings county Ind, and his son Glen, to produce 18,000 broiler chickens last year

Jones starts 1,200 chicks in a battery brooder house, then moves them to a heated section of a broiler house 233 feet long At the same time he starts 1,200 more chicks in the brooder

The system gives them a shipment for market every week

The Jones also raise turkeys, hogs and cattle

HEALTH SEAL BACKING URGED

Dr. N. Sifritt Points To Need of Funds Following TB Clinic Here.

The widest possible support of the March of Dimes and the Health Association's Christmas seal campaign was stressed today by Dr. N. Sifritt, Marion county health commissioner, upon the conclusion of the second TB clinic held at City hospital Wednesday afternoon with Dr. George Kress, Columbus specialist in charge. The clinic is held the first and third Wednesday of each month as a joint project of the county health department and the Marion County TB and Health Association and is supported by Christmas seal funds.

One new active case of tuberculosis discovered in yesterday's clinic which should be hospitalized immediately, Dr. Sifritt said, was sent back to his home because of a lack of funds to give the TB victim at that time. The TB victim was referred to the clinic by his family physician as a suspected TB. Dr. Kress diagnosis confirmed him as a TB case.

The latest Marion county TB victim is a further illustration of the necessity of continuing the health program, Dr. Sifritt said. It is for the treatment of such cases the vitally needed funds collected by the Christmas seal campaign are used. A lack of these much needed funds may cost this man his life and leave four children fatherless, Dr. Sifritt said.

31 Examined

Thirty-one patients were examined in Wednesday's clinic which was observed by three Marion physicians. Fifteen of those examined were persons who have been in contact with active TB cases. Two patients were given pneumothorax treatments which induce air into the lungs to reduce the cavity caused by TB infection. Three patients treated were cases returned here from sanitorium treatment provided by Christmas seal funds used earlier this year. Upon examination two of these were shown to have made marked advances toward full recovery.

Four arrested cases of TB were examined. Four questionable active cases were also discovered. Two suspected cases of TB were given preliminary examinations while a third person examined was found to be free of the disease, Dr. Sifritt said.

Use of Skin Tests

A key project most useful in the discovery of early and more advanced TB infection here is the TB skin tests given free each Monday and Wednesday morning at the health commissioner's office at the courthouse by Dr. Sifritt. These tests, which have been given to 169 persons thus far this year determine if persons examined have been in contact with any active TB cases. These tests have given the first inkling of suspected TB infection in many local persons and have contributed largely to the discovery and treatment of TB victims here, many of whom did not know they had been in contact with the dread ailment, the health commissioner concluded.

IN DIVORCE PROBE — Alleged to have been a professional "correspondent" in New York City divorce actions, Mrs. Nora Ellis (above) is being held with two others in an investigation of a purported "divorce mill racket." Mrs. Ellis, mother of three children, was said to have accepted $10 fees per court appearance for testifying in cases where husbands and wives had agreed to "framed raids" to obtain divorces.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

JUNIOR was at my side as soon as I had finished speaking and had his hands on both my shoulders. Roderick was beside me, looking at me with reproachful eyes, matching those of his cousin.

"What is this, anyway?" my young son demanded. "Have you ever known us to cross on anything you asked us to do?"

"No never," I told him earnestly.

"And you know how we drove over the hump from Rodderick said, his eyes beginning

Just the Trouble

"That's just the trouble," I told them. "You'll have to take the rush hour stuff second hand from me. I want you to have a real first hand from Uncle Harry. He evidently has some important news to give your father—but we've got to get Faith away from the apartment while the two men are talking."

"Nuff said," Junior told me, taking his hands from my shoulders, and putting both arms around me in one of his bear hugs. "We get it, don't we Rod, old sock?"

"Sure thing," Roderick said, pushing Junior aside and giving me one of his own special embraces. "You need us for baby sitters, eh, Auntie Madge?"

I felt my eyes misting at the cheeriness of both of them in the face of what I knew must be a bitter disappointment.

"You are such good sports!" I told them warmly, "and you have guessed what I want. Aunt Katharine will say that your father must be quiet for awhile, and will propose that you Ross and Patty go down to her apartment for a game of—"

"Say what have you?" Junior said with a grin.

"Exactly," I told him. "Then while you are gone Uncle Harry will give out whatever news he has. But I promise you solemnly that you shall not miss a single word. I'm going to listen carefully, and I shall not forget a single syllable."

"Not with your marvelous memory you won't," my young son said fatalistically.

"If I can I'll do better than that," I said. "If you father is strong enough I'll have him give you the news himself after Faith have gone to bed."

"But," Junior said in quick alarm, "you must be sure that he is strong enough."

"We mustn't take a chance of his tiring himself just to talk to us," Roderick supplemented.

Will Be Sure

"I'll be sure of that, my darlings," I told them "and I do think you are the two best boys in the whole wide world. Now we must go back to the other room for I imagine that Aunt Katharine and Aunt Lillian will have arrived."

I was a true prophet, for when we came into the room, Katharine was seated by Dicky's side, gravely taking his pulse, and watching to see that he kept his lips closed on the thermometer in his mouth. She did not look at us until she had checked pulse and temperature, but I saw Harry Underwood's eyes gleaming with mirth as he watched her.

"I was afraid of this," Katharine said as she stood up, after putting her thermometer aside. "His pulse and temperature are faster. Nothing serious, but he has been overdoing this, and must rest."

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Letters to Santa are beginning to go forward. Walter Reuther says he would like a nice 1944 cost of living.

• • •

He had one in 1944 but that was the year Walter thought he would like a 52-for-40 magic kit.

Printed in bright colors and attractively boxed.

• • •

The instruction sheet read "this little kit will apparently put surplus cash in any man's pockets"... And most people read every word of it except one.

• • •

But everyone would like a 1944 cost of living this Christmas. Particularly those who liked it even in 1944.

• • •

Six people on a television show were asked "which would you rather have—1948 prices and wages or 1940 prices and wages?" and as one man they answered "1940 prices and 1948 wages."

• • •

Is there a Santa in the house?

REVIVE CRAWFORD COUNTY FARM SAFETY COMMITTEE

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS—Plans for revival of Crawford county's Farm Safety committee were made Tuesday at a meeting of 15 school and farm organization representatives at the court house here.

Formal reorganization of the committee will take place Jan. 3, at the courthouse when officers will be elected, a constitution and a 1949 program outlined, County Agriculture Agent Russell L. Miller said today.

The committee was established in 1946 to minimize farm accidents and acquaint rural citizen with state industrial insurance required of an employer of more than two individuals.

A committee composed of Miller, County School Supt. S. K. Sollars, James Krauter, Clifford Hoover, both of near Bucyrus, and Mrs. Floyd Kress of Leesville, will choose nominees for the various offices.

Freedom's Dilemma

MADAME CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S hurry up-trip to Washington for help which might save her husband's tottering government has dramatized freedom's dilemma.

How can free men fight despotism in China or anywhere else with weapons which themselves have become symbols of despotism?

In China the fact is that the regime of Chiang Kai-shek does not command the confidence of Chinese striving to improve the condition of their countrymen in respect to freedom. However good the regime's intentions may have been at one time, they are not good enough not to command the loyalty of a preponderant majority.

The United States government and the American people want to help the Chinese people. They want to keep the Chinese from being betrayed by Communists, whose promises of liberation are tempting bait to a population abused and betrayed by generations of corrupt and despotic government. But the regime of Chiang Kai-shek is not an adequate weapon for the battle against despotism.

American aid in other parts of the world is under the same handicap. Its impact on the population of Greece has been discounted by the fact that the Greek government is a rusty sword in the battle for freedom. Many Americans, having grasped the implications of British socialism, are wary of accepting a Socialist regime as a trusty weapon in the battle for freedom.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek must realize that reluctance to give more aid to China is no reflection on the worthiness of her people. It is, however, a reflection on the ability of her husband's government to use the aid for its intended purpose—to bolster human dignity.

Incident in Michigan

LAW enforcement authorities of Michigan are trying to track down members of a 300-man raiding party which swept down on the strike-bound factories of the Shakespeare companies at Kalamazoo and destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of property. Workmen on the premises were beaten, it is reported.

It's obvious that the identity of that many men cannot be concealed indefinitely. There must be hundreds of people in Michigan, particularly in the region of Kalamazoo, who know who some of them were. But it's unlikely that these people will come forward voluntarily. The burden of the search will be on police authorities.

In Michigan and in all states subject to mob violence growing out of recurrent labor disputes, the same problem exists. Either society will accept responsibility for curbing violence, or uncurbed violence will destroy society. Law enforcement authorities in themselves cannot cope with large-scale outbreaks; there aren't that many policemen.

Agitators who encourage violence know this. They depend on it. They rely on the apathy of the general public to carry on their anti-social depredations. They can be restrained only by repeated demonstrations that they will not be tolerated; that they are not different from any other public enemy resorting to violence to get what he wants.

Local Government First

OFFICIALS attending the American Municipal association convention from Dec. 12 to Dec. 15 will pay special attention to revenue, according to an advance story. They have been paying special attention to it for many years, but especially since the end of World War II.

That's because since the end of the war it has been painfully plain to most municipalities that the federal government has edged them out of competition for the taxpayer's dollar. Millions and billions are made easily available to federal taxing authority for spending at home and abroad, but when local taxing authority wants a few thousands for the everyday needs of government its' lucky to get anything.

Taxpayers take out their grudge against punitive taxation on the authority closest at hand. They vote cheerfully for national policies that will cost billions, but rise up in their wrath to smite down a local proposal that would cost a few hundred thousands. They vote to build castles and vast bureaucracies in Washington but squawk in righteous indignation if it's proposed they do something for the benefit of the old home town.

City officials know how it works, and they don't like it. They think local government needs more income and more independence, and they propose to do something about it. Unfortunately, what they propose to do is to get more income without taking anything away from federal and state income; i.e., to bring about a net increase in taxation. If they try this, they are going to be disappointed. What they would be better advised to try would be a campaign of popular education to show the gross inequities of the distribution of tax money already being collected—inequities that make it possible for the federal government to have nearly everything its generous heart could desire while local government must pinch pennies to pay for the ordinary expenses of government housekeeping.

Business Views Wanted

By David Lawrence

Advice Welcome in Washington

WASHINGTON

BUSINESSMEN, many of whom have been suffering from the shock of the election result and some of whom have gotten the mistaken impression that their advice isn't wanted in Washington, are being told to forget it—and come and make their viewpoints known.

The Truman administration has taken cognizance of the wave of pessimism which recently swept the business community. Secretary of Commerce Sawyer went to particular pains to write this week a public address, which he submitted to President Truman, assuring business that there is no plot afoot to undermine the economic system with destructive legislation.

Similar expressions of reassurance may be forthcoming. The truth is that the administration is much surprised at the reaction in some business quarters over the expectations of a sudden turn to radicalism. Possibly much of the talk in business circles stems from the outspoken predictions of an intent to wipe out the Taft-Hartley law and leave the one-sided Wagner act in its place. Another source of concern is the proposal to restore the wartime excess-profits law.

• • •

ON BOTH THESE counts the administration views have by no means crystallized. While it is certain that a law which will bear the names of Democrats instead of Republicans will replace the Taft-Hartley act, it is not so certain that the one-sided Wagner law will be that substitute. Even if the labor leaders want such an extreme position, the administration knows that such a proposal will not get by congress where a majority who voted for the Taft-Hartley act is still in power. Whatever law is passed will have to take account of the conflicting interests of labor unions and management. In the end, there will be repeal only if such a compromise is developed. To put it another way, the advocates of outright repeal without a substitute will be playing into the hands of those who want the Taft-Hartley act to go untouched.

• • •

ON EXCESS PROFITS TAXES. Senator O'Mahoney, one of the most powerful of the Democrats in the senate, told the press after a visit to the President that an actual restoration of the wartime law on excess profits was not contemplated. He spoke of the need for writing a law that would not discourage new enterprises. This reveals an awareness of the whole problem of approaching off into tax receipts any excess of profits without restricting businesses in the growth stage. Mere percentage rates will not be of avail and could conceivably impair the whole economy structure. Some other formula has to be devised and it is not easy. But the fact that the administration indicates that it knows the complexity of the problem is reassuring in itself.

More important than any other phase of the pro-recession mood of business is the report that some businessmen feel they have been cut off from Washington and that they should avoid the national capital as much as possible. This is probably not an accurate reflection at all of how the majority of businessmen feel but the report has gained ground here recently, especially as it has been asserted that some businessmen expect the Truman administration, by radical legislation, involuntarily to create conditions that will bring about a recession and hence a political upheaval would result and a Republican congress would come back in 1950.

• • •

THE SITUATION internationally is so serious that any holding back or reluctance by any economic group to cooperate in Washington just now can be injurious. The cooperation of every group is needed to make the economic system function on a voluntary basis, with government as a guide to what constitutes the public interest.

If a recession does come, there is always the possibility that a much more radical congress may be elected in 1950 and that nationalization or some new forms of control of industry and business may result.

Businessmen who let the forming of policies here go by default will be making a serious mistake. The administration is anxious to have the business viewpoint as well as the labor or agricultural viewpoint. It is a time for greater rather than less interest in government and more rather than less participation by businessmen in the councils of those here who make governmental policy on economic questions.

Is FAO Necessary?

By Raymond Moley

IN HIS first public speech after the election, President Truman honored the food and agriculture organization. He uttered some pre-Thanksgiving pleasantries which were well received by a considerable number of foreign experts and near-experts who came to discuss the interesting subject of food. Perhaps a stray taxpayer or two, reading of this in his newspaper, asked himself the question, "Just what is this FAO and what is it good for?"

The FAO is theoretically a part of the United Nations. It was founded three years ago to bring about international cooperation in the agriculture and food field. It has been described as a sort of institute for worldwide planning. Although the FAO had its parentage in the UN, it largely has operated as an independent agency, even to the extent of selecting new members and observers.

With its high-sounding title and pretentions, its figures and predictions have had a totally undue influence in Washington. And on the record it has not been particularly happy in its predictions. In May, 1946, it predicted a great shortage of food—a need for 30 million metric tons of grain, with only 18 or 20 million tons available. Ultimately, it was found that there was a 27 million-ton balance of supply and demand for world export.

• • •

IN THE EARLY autumn of 1947, the FAO, from then on reinforced by the international emergency food council—predicted that 50 million tons would be needed, with only 27 or 28 million tons available in the world. This prediction of a huge shortage had a terrific inflationary influence on prices and was partly responsible for the famous speculative spree a year ago.

This column, on reliable information, registered doubt about those figures in early November of that year. By spring of this year the error was belatedly admitted, but after so many people and agencies knew the error that the yeast had gone out of the market.

The tendency of the FAO has been to exaggerate requirements for food in not basing them on the eating habits of European countries, let alone those of the yellow and brown peoples of the world. Nutritionists like Sir John Boyd Orr, former FAO chairman, were responsible for a great scare about undernourishment for the next 25 years, at a time when menacing surpluses could be foreseen in the near future.

• • •

THE HOPE THAT the FAO could induce the cooperation of the nations in food production and consumption has been shattered. Each nation has adopted its own policies, suited to its own internal conditions. Bilateral trade agreements have become the rule, and free trade or mulateral agreements the exception.

Agricultural and food statistics should issue from our own department of agriculture, as before the war. As far as international figures are concerned, the international agricultural institute in Rome did a good job before the war, with vastly less money and fewer employes than the FAO technical help to underdeveloped countries can be provided without an FAO.

This overlapping in food matters, as well as in other fields, should be noted by the Hoover commission. And the FAO should be moved back into the UN, where it originated and where it belongs.

Excess Profits Tax Issue

Congressional Hearings To Open in December

ONCE more Philip Murray, president of the CIO, has come out for an excess profits tax. Pro and con forces are marshaling their arguments in preparation for hearings next month before a subcommittee of the joint congressional economic committee.

The Truman administration's record on excess profits taxation is mixed. In 1945 a Democratic congress repealed the wartime excess profits tax, as urged by Fred M. Vinson, who was then secretary of the treasury. Vinson said the tax would be "an obstacle to that reconversion and expansion of business which are so necessary for a high level of employment and income."

Until lately, taxation of excess profits has been looked upon chiefly as a wartime anti-profiteering measure. After World War I the excess profits tax was continued at reduced rates until Jan. 1, 1922. On the other hand, within a few weeks after termination of World War II, the Truman administration recommended immediate repeal of the levy.

The only previous U. S. experience with peacetime excess profits taxation was imposed as a temporary measure to increase revenue after the depression. It was put on a permanent basis in 1934. The rate was 5 per cent on corporation net income in excess of 12.5 per cent of the declared value of capital stock, plus a separate capital stock tax. In 1936 the rate was raised to 6 per cent in 10 to 15 per cent of profits above 10 per cent of capital stock value and 12 per cent on more than 15 per cent. During World War II the rate had a maximum of 85½ per cent, net.

Profits of all corporations, after taxes, reached a record total of $18,075,000,000 in 1947—almost 50 per cent higher than in 1948. Profits ran at a rate slightly higher than in 1947. The highest profit figure during the war was in 1944—$10,808,000,000. In 1946 it was $2,000,000,000 higher.

Even though dollar profits are higher than ever before in history, they may not be excessive for that reason alone. Increases reflect higher production, more capital investment and a rise in the general price level. Economists say that absolute profits should always be considered in relation to the national income, now higher than ever before because of inflation.

JOSEPH STALIN ARRIVED IN THE U.S. LAST NIGHT TO TALK PEACE—
HE SAID, "I CAN'T EXPECT EVERYBODY TO COME TO MOSCOW ALL THE TIME—IT'S UP TO ME TO MAKE A FEW CALLS, MYSELF"

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Dec. 3, 1938.

Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, predicted that if the United States joined the "hysterical" world armaments race, popular sentiment would force congress to approve a constitutional amendment giving the people the right to declare any but a defensive war.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis O. Dome, about 65 and 60 years of age, respectively, who lived three miles northwest of LaRue, were killed instantly when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train at the Seventh street crossing in Upper Sandusky.

A party of 16 Marion residents, members of the American Legion and auxiliary, attended the annual national commander's banquet at the Deshler Wallick Hotel in Columbus. The party included L. H. Larsen, commander of Bird-McGinnis Post, No. 162, American Legion, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hane, Carl Andrews, Clarence Bowe, William R. Martin, Irving L. Dutt, Thomas Hurley, D. J. MacDonald, L. M. Sherman, James Divney, John V. Ruth, Vane Ireland, J. W. Llewellyn, R. A. Todd and Alfred Donithen.

An armed unmasked bandit forced William M. Warner, proprietor of the Purity Market, into a refrigerator, locked the door and proceeded to loot the store's cash register. Warner was released about 20 minutes later when Donald Eugene Noggle, age 6, entered the store to purchase an ice cream cone. Hearing his call for help the boy notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Noggle of Summit street, who were waiting in a parked automobile.

Miss Anna Edelman, 67, of East Church street, died at the home of her brother, H. A. Edelman, at Ravenna.

Dr. C. G. Smith, Eighth District congressman-elect, announced appointment of Harry L. Brookshire as his congressional secretary.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Dec. 3, 1928.

Congress opened its "lame duck" session with but three months to serve before the new congress convened.

L. E. Crain, former Marion insurance man, died suddenly at Washington, C. H.

Ezra Musser, 97, noted "trail blazer" of the west, died at Seattle, Wash.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn F. Pickett of Union street and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Combs of Bennett street.

Three hundred guests and members attended a bridge and euchre party given by the Federation of Catholic Women in Schwinger's hall. The guests were greeted by Mrs. N. L. Gebhart, president of the federation, and Mrs. J. F. Prendergast, social chairman.

Miss Ruth Starr was hostess to Le Mercure club at her home on Lafayette street. Miss Marian Conley, health chairman of the club, distributed Christmas health seals to the members.

Miss Margaret Williams was hostess to the Three D's club at her home on North Grand avenue.

W. E. Baker was elected noble grand of Kosciuska Lodge, IOOF.

One hundred and fifty men and boys attended the father and son banquet of the First Presbyterian church. Charles Moore presided as toastmaster and talks were given by Asa Queen and Dewey N. Bobyer.

Daily Bible Thought

Yet millions place their hope on things that always finally fail. Gross sensual pleasures are neither sure nor steadfast in their satisfaction. "Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul both sure and steadfast."—Heb. 6:19.

The Law of Nations

By George E. Sokolsky

AFTER the downfall of Napoleon, Europe faced all the confusions which we face today. Napoleon had tried to reorganize the world to his liking. He sought a federation of states under himself: something that Stalin is trying to do today. Opposed to Napoleon were those countries which he had failed to master and those which managed to liberate themselves. He was master of the world, creating states, appointing kings, changing forms of government.

Then he failed. The real cause for his failure will long be debated. But when it happened and he was a prisoner on St. Helena, Europe engaged in conferences at Paris and Vienna and undoubtedly in other places to find a conclusion to a prolonged, universal war. It was extraordinarily difficult and the nations were in conflict, even to their own detriment. The shock of Napoleonism did not readily abate. Napoleon was present in spirit at every conference as Hitler is present today.

• • •

THE MOST CURIOUS character at these conferences was Talleyrand, renegade and married bishop of the Roman Catholic church, Napoleon's foreign minister as he was now the minister of Louis XVIII. He had survived the revolution, Napoleon, and was now making a peace. He had his instructions from Louis, which he probably wrote to himself. I quote the essence of them from Ferrero's "The Reconstruction of Europe." I quote them because they apply today as poignantly as they did when Talleyrand made them his guide:

"The European nations do not live under moral or natural law alone but also under a law which they have invented and which gives the first law a sanction which it would otherwise lack: a law established by written conventions or by customs which are constantly, universally, and mutually observed, based always on mutual consent, whether expressed or tacit, and obligatory for all. This law is the law of nations.

"This law has two fundamental principles. One is that sovereignty cannot be acquired by the simple act of conquest, nor be transferred to the conqueror, if the sovereign does not cede it willingly. The other is that no title of sovereignty, and consequently the law which proceeds therefrom, has any reality for other states, unless they recognize it."

• • •

OUR OWN TROUBLED times arise, of course, out of war and all that preceded the war, but more immediately they come from errors of judgment and misunderstanding of history at the preliminary conferences of Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam, the order JCS 1067 which implemented the Morgenthau plan and the failure to make of the United Nations a true parliament of man.

The essential error was that the law of nations was abandoned. For it was substituted a series of deals, trades, transactions based upon the assumption that sovereignty is a matter of no importance, that lands and peoples can be moved about without their consent and against their interest. So we find Poland made a fief of Soviet Russia; Manchuria made into a Soviet sphere of influence; Korea divided in half between Soviet Russia and the United States. A line was drawn vertically across Europe which closed off a large part of the world to the rest of the world. One country became so large geographically and in manpower that it made a just peace impossible.

• • •

NONE OF THIS WAS done with the consent of the countries or peoples involved. They were not present. For instance, China was not asked to come to Teheran, although Chiang Kai-shek was immediately after called to Cairo, where a declaration was made by Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang which was violated at Yalta. De Gaulle was not at Yalta.

It is interesting that no matter what has since been tried ends in failure. The reason, of course, is that no principles guide the world today. No contract can be written without basic and agreed principles; no treaty of peace can be written without basic and agreed principles. Without them, the representatives of nations are like blind men walking in a forest. Of course, they stumble at each step; they hit into obstacles; they soon strike at each other. That is where we are, but we need not be. Once the principles of the law of nations are restored, the road will be a less onerous one.

Too much cannot be done towards guarding and guiding well the germinating and inclining thought of childhood.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Grand Opera Television Notes

(For the first time in history, a grand opera was broadcast from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House opened its New York season.—News item.)

• • •

Lord and Lady Mudbank left the opera house early but not before he was consulted in connection with the installation of Channel Four by mistake.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. T. Waddington Piddle, noted patrons of the opera, occupied their usual box but suffered from stage fright.

• • •

Mrs. Cornelius Duffington III and her daughter the Duchess of Ipana were among the early arrivals and never looked more out of focus.

• • •

Colonel and Mrs. Wadsworth Hostetter attended with Mrs. Hostetter's mother but they would have done better on Channel Six.

• • •

The Duke and Duchess of Menthol were on hand but were handicapped by video distortions due to fault aerials on many roofs.

• • •

Miss Gloria Finchbutton, one of our recent debs, arrived a little late and came over looking a good deal like a victim of trick mirrors at the Coney Island House of Fun.

• • •

Major and Mrs. Wesley Hopscotch II were on hand but were not at their best due to being caught between a commercial and a vaudeville program in another channel.

• • •

T. Waddingham Quack stood on his head in the bar to carry out a family tradition but his picture came through in such a jumpy manner that he seemed to be rightside up. He will sue.

• • •

The P. Jason Hellsbells arrived between some airplane interference and a lot of eastern seaboard trouble synchronizing voices with images.

• • •

General and Mrs. Bruce Catchcan Whistlestorp left in high dudgeon after discovering that due to some camera confusion they had spent a half hour on the St. Nicholas Boxing bouts instead of at the opera.

• • •

Mrs. Hamish Guddbudd somehow wandered into a talk on gasoline and motor oils and was mistaken for a part of the commercial, despite her hairdo.

• • •

Colonel and Mrs. T. G. Bulbous-Boulbus III had quite a mishap and are highly embarrassed. They got home from the opera to discover that on the television screen they had appeared in a wrestling bout broadcast, Mrs. Bulbous-Bulbous winning in three straight falls.

Who's Normal?

By Truman Twill

In the same crazy way that moving pictures have set standards of human appearances which bear no relation to reality, organized sports are setting "standards" of weight and height.

In basketball, a player who approximates the average height for his age no longer has a chance on a team that takes itself seriously. Or if he is tolerated because of outstanding ability, he is referred to as "Little Joe" or some other nickname suggesting that he's a dwarf. And of course he is—among modern basketball players.

The result has been to distort what otherwise is a sound game into a demonstration by squads of high-pocketed freaks. While some coaches have resisted this tendency, sensing the danger inherent in it, the lucky coaches who can round up teams of players towering upward of seven feet are willing to take the chance.

In big-time football, and small-time football with big aspirations, the emphasis is on both height and weight, but particularly weight. Many a man who never felt any particular need to apologize for being of average size has gritted his teeth upon hearing some player weighing 175 pounds referred to indulgently by a radio announcer as "little." But then, of course, he was—compared with behemoths ranging well above 200 pounds.

The fact that both men and women are supposed these days to look like the painted dolls of Hollywood or be deemed disgustingly ugly and unattractive doesn't make the addition of one more insult any easier to bear. Normal people resent the foolishness of having to stand comparison with abnormal people, and they wish something could be done about it.

The truth is that most of the human beings in this country are mighty sad-looking specimens, with lumps and angles where they shouldn't be. They do not look like anyone in the movies. They do not even look like the kind of people who had won awards for being outstandingly healthy children.

They are too short for basketball, too light for football, too awkward for dancing, too thick in the head to be intellectual and too thick in the middle for romance. They are just the ordinary run of human specimens taken at random off the assembly line—the everyday Joes and Marys who like to shell out for an occasional movie or sports contest but don't cotton to the idea that there must be something inferior about them because they never can be anything but spectators.

Understand, they have nothing against the freaks who happen to be photogenic, or tall, or heavy, or able to do something out of the ordinary that makes them sideshow attractions. They just don't want to be told that the freaks are normal, that's all. They know what's normal. It's what they see in their mirrors day by day, and it's awful.

PETITION FOR GALION VOTE

Request Power Franchise Ordinance Be Submitted to Public Ballot.

Special to The Star

GALION, Dec. 3 — Petitions carrying 1,310 names of Galion voters requesting that the franchise ordinance be submitted to a vote of the electors of Galion, were turned in to Mayor H. H. Hartmann and Council Clerk James H. Nichols yesterday.

The franchise ordinance was passed several weeks ago by city council over the mayor's veto. It granted the Ohio Public Service Co. the right to sell electric current to the Galion manufacturers, the Galion Iron Works and Manufacturing Co., and the Central Ohio Steel Products Co. Upon passage of the ordinance over the mayor's veto, the petition for a referendum was instituted by John P. Drouth, a Galion taxpayer. By law the referendum petition needed signatures of 10 per cent of the voters at the last election. City officials stated there were 4,501 voters in November, and therefore only 450 signers were needed.

Attacked Before

The franchise ordinance was attacked Nov. 13 when a temporary injunction against the city of Galion and the Ohio Public Service Co. was granted in Bucyrus common pleas court shortly after a petition for injunction was filed by City Solicitor George H. Davies. He filed the suit to halt any action under the franchise ordinance which granted the Ohio Public Service Co. the right to sell electric power to the two above mentioned factories. The suit also was filed at the request of Drouth, and listed the Bucyrus law firm of E. J. Myers and Robert Spurlock as associate counsel.

The injunction suit attacked the emergency clause of the franchise ordinance which Mayor Hartmann vetoed. It requested that any action be enjoined until a petition for referendum be filed. At that time Judge C. V. Ahl granted an injunction for 30 days stating that "the construction of poles, wires and conduits, overhead and underground, is enjoined until such time as a referendum may be filed."

Many Proposed Solutions

Galion's long-standing power problem has had many proposed solutions, most of them meeting with opposition and ending in the courts. The city needs more power for its progress, manufacturers and civic leaders have contended, and the solution as to which is the best method of securing the additional electric energy needed has long puzzled citizens. Manufacturers have declared that the Galion Municipal Light and Power Co. no longer is able to generate adequate power, and a supplemental supply from an outside utility is necessary.

On the other hand, opponents to the plan to secure power from an outside utility have declared that this will lead to the abandonment of Galion's municipal plant.

Says Ohio Will Keep On as Low-Tax State

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, O., Dec. 3 —Ohio will keep on as a low-tax state, C. Emery Glander promised last night, so long as "inordinate" demands are not made on the state till and there is no depression.

Glander, state tax commissioner, told a Bowling Green State university conference on business taxes that the state's tax load was "relatively light" with no corporate income tax, an "exceedingly mild" franchise tax, and exemption of business and industry from the retail sales tax.

A survey by the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce, he said, put Ohio seventh among ten selected states in the proportion of business taxes to total state taxes.

"No new or increased taxes in the next biennium will be required," he said, "if state grants and tax sharing are not substantially increased over present levels and if there is no serious economic recession."

Danger Signals That Warn of a Vitamin Deficiency

During recent years, the magic word, Vitamins, has aroused interest, and doctors were quick to learn that not enough of the right kinds of vitamins may really raise havoc in the body. Citing just one example, a deficiency of certain vitamins may lead to conditions affecting the mouth and gums. I refer especially to a deficiency of Vitamin C, which causes scurvy.

In scurvy there are mouth symptoms including bleeding under the lining membrane around the jaw bone, and spongy swollen, bleeding gums. In advanced cases, actual loosening of the teeth may occur. There is some evidence indicating that certain cases of gum inflammation may be the result of mild scurvy.

Limited Amounts

On the other hand, the observation of large groups of people, who have had limited amounts of Vitamin C, has not shown that gum inflammation or gingivitis developed. When gum inflammation is present, it is always important to make sure that the patient has received enough Vitamin C, but the treatment of gum disease with Vitamin C alone is not satisfactory.

Symptoms of Vitamin B-complex deficiency also develop in the mouth. For example, when there is a deficiency of riboflavin, part of the Vitamin B-complex, there is often cracking and inflammation at the corners of the mouth. This is frequently accompanied by a typical inflammation of the tongue, in which the tongue has a purplish-red color. These mouth symptoms may also be accompanied by a mild disturbance of the eyes with pain, when the eyes are exposed to light, and some inflammation of the lining membrane over the eye. These symptoms due to riboflavin deficiency clear up quickly when the preparation is administered.

Swollen Tongue

Not enough niacin also a part of the Vitamin B-complex will cause the tongue to become swollen and scarlet in color. There is likely to be an excessive saliva formation. These symptoms may be accompanied by diarrhea and vomiting, also a skin eruption, with headaches, dizziness, and sleeplessness.

There is also evidence that a lack of niacin may be a contributing factor to the development of a mouth infection known as Vincent's angina.

In view of the fact that a deficiency of these various vitamins may be related to mouth disorders, it is important to make sure that persons who have these disturbances are amply supplied with the necessary vitamins.

FERGUSON ASSAILS BUILDING PROPOSAL

Says He'll Ask Probe of State Office Project.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 3 — State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said today he would request a grand jury investigation "of all negotiations and transactions in connection with the proposed new state office building for which $5 million has been appropriated."

Although Ferguson did not say so, presumably the request will be made to the new Democratic controlled legislature which convenes Jan. 3. A special session of the present Republican controlled body is scheduled for next Monday.

Ferguson also said he had given orders to withhold payment of all vouchers issued against the appropriation by the department of public works. The auditor said he is withholding payment on three vouchers for $200 each issued as additional compensation to three members of the Columbus real estate board which had appraised the site for the proposed new building.

Ferguson added the real estate board already had been paid $1,267 for making the appraisal. The additional compensation was for a letter detailing the manner in which they arrived at the valuation of $576,400 for the site.

He also recounted that he had voted against release of the $576,400 by the controlling board to pay for the proposed site.

Ferguson said he had voted against release by the controlling board of an additional $43,000 to Public Works Director George B. Sowers to purchase an additional tract of land which originally had been appraised at $157,000 but later was increased to $200,000.

Ferguson challenged authority of the public works director to purchase the new site as the original appropriation made four years ago was for additions to the present state office buildings on property already owned by the state. The present legislature in reappropriating the money made it available for "site and buildings."

Ferguson said he also questions the advisability of constructing a new state office building at this time because of current high building costs. He said the state has plenty of land within the city on which a building could be erected.

SUCCEEDS GREEN. Robert Poelle (above) of Sabina, named president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation at its 30th annual meeting in Columbus, will succeed Perry L. Green, president for 15 years, on Jan. 1 when the latter retires to his farm in Portage county.

Vets' Agricultural Training Class Opens

Another veterans agriculture training class was launched Wednesday night at a meeting at Prospect High school, it was reported today by D. T. Mills, county school superintendent.

The new class in which 22 veterans are enrolled, marks the fifth of the vets agricultural training classes to be set up in the county, Mills said.

Vets take classroom training two nights a week and farm the rest of the time under the GI program. Class instructor is Charles Gillespie of LaRue.

CALEDONIA SERMON

Sunday morning at Memorial Methodist church in Caledonia, Rev. S. E. Kaetzel, pastor, will present a pre-Christmas sermon. Thursday night next week, a family night Christmas party will be held by the congregation, with a program of music, Santa Claus treat and refreshments. At the close of the evening service Sunday, there will be a special meeting of the official board, Rev. Kaetzel announced.

STRICKEN STUDENT GETS YULE PRESENT

OSU Classmates Cheer Former Delaware Man.

A 26-year-old war veteran, Robert Quigg, formerly of Delaware, who is receiving treatment in Children's Hospital in Columbus as a victim of poliomyelitis, Wednesday was presented a Christmas gift a little early, a check for $650. The fund came from practically everyone in the College of Dentistry at Ohio State university in which Mr. Quigg was a junior when he was stricken late last July.

The presentation was made to the veteran and his wife in Mr. Quigg's hospital room by several representatives of the junior class of the College of Dentistry.

Doctors, technicians, helpers, students and office aides contributed to the fund which will go entirely for the living needs of Quigg's wife, the former Betty Keilholtz, also of Delaware, and their 20-month-old son. The hospital and medical expenses are paid by the Franklin County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The subsistence allowed by the government on the GI Bill of Rights to Quigg and his family was cut when illness forced the veteran to quit his school.

Quigg entered Children's Hospital last July 28 and was completely paralyzed from the neck down at that time. He is reported to be improving and now is able to move his right hand.

Making the presentation were Dr. William Dalton of Cincinnati, president of the junior class of the College of Dentistry, Douglas Brown, treasurer, R. N. Weaver, chairman of the committee for the Quigg Fund, and Harold Lauer, also formerly of Delaware and a long-time friend of Quigg.

The junior class started to raise the fund about four weeks ago and everyone in the college was approached for a contribution.

Quigg, whose parents reside in Delaware, attended Ohio Wesleyan university there before transferring to the College of Dentistry at Ohio State.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

Evangelistic services at the Wesleyan chapel at New Bloomington will continue through Sunday, with Rev. Donald F. Howard of Zanesville preaching. It was announced. Three services Sunday will be at 10 a. m., 2 p. m. and 7:30. Special music and singing is a part of these services.
